

Weddings get a sweet twist

A sweets parlour

Prashant Gupta and Parikshit Gupta

Indian weddings are no longer about simple-predictable food. Lavish spreads have become the order of the day, with people getting more and more specific and choosy about the menu. Keeping this in mind, Gupta Brothers, a name synonymous with sweets and other yummy desserts, has forayed into new territory — setting up sweet parlours at weddings. Each parlour is a counter brimming with a variety of sandesh and even live counters. On offer are chilled sandesh and other delicacies like nolen gur rossogolla and nolen rabri malai gilori. "It's time for sweet surrender," said owner Prashant Gupta.

The brand has also branched out to Salt Lake recently.

Packaged offerings; (also below)

Visit the stores at CF203 Sector 1 Salt Lake (033-69000005, 69000006), or at 198 J Block, New Alipore (033-24457161, 24071761); email: info@guptabros.in; website: www.guptabros.co.in; or call Parikshit Gupta at 9831008956

A 'sweet' gift

Guests are spoilt for choice at a wedding